

Mid Yorkshire Hospitals

The histopathology department is based in Dewsbury District Hospital, with autopsy work being carried out at neighbouring Pinderfields Hospital in Wakefield. The department is currently staffed by 12 consultants with a mix of full and part time working.

This is a general histopathology department with opportunities for experience in most histopathology specialities (and MDTs), autopsy work and non-gynaecological cytology. There is a daily multiheader meeting where challenging and interesting cases are discussed. The department accommodates 2-3 trainees at any time, with good microscopes and computers. Independent reporting appropriate to the level of training is actively encouraged.
